- The manuscript must be your own original work and must not duplicate any other previously published work, including your own.
- Material from a dissertation may be submitted as long as it is substantially revised and conforms to the expectations of a journal article.
- The manuscript must be submitted only to Rhetoric Society Quarterly and must not be under consideration or peer review, accepted for publication, or in press elsewhere.
- Your submission should be accompanied by a cover letter in which you briefly describe the origins of the project and confirm that the submission meets the criteria outlined above.

Citation and Documentation: RSQ follows the MLA Style Manual, 3rd ed. (2008), which requires parenthetical in-text citations (author and page) and an alphabetical list of Works Cited at the end. Notes should be used only for substantive comments.

Manuscript Submission: RSQ accepts submissions online through the Manuscript Central service—now renamed ScholarOne. Please visit http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/rrsq to create an author account and submit a manuscript as either a Microsoft Word document (DOC not DOCX) or a Rich Text File (RTF). ScholarOne converts submissions to PDF format for review. If you have questions about ScholarOne, please contact rsqeditors@gmail.com, support@scholarone.com, or click GET HELP NOW at the top right corner of any page on the website.

Book Reviews: Book reviews are assigned by the Book Review Editor, Jeremy Engels. To propose a book review, please contact him at the Penn State University, jdengels@gmail.com. Reviews of single books should run about 1,200–1,500 words.

Copyright: Authors transfer copyright to the Rhetoric Society of America but retain the following specific rights: to make further copies of their work for use in classroom teaching, to reuse their work in a compilation of their own works or a textbook that they author, and to make copies for internal distribution within their institutions of employment. To obtain permission for other uses, see the Permissions page on the RSA website. As an author, you are required to secure permission if you want to reproduce any figure, table, or extract from the text of another source. This applies to direct reproduction as well as "derivative reproduction" (where you have created a new figure or table which derives substantially from a copyrighted source).

Reprints, Online Publication: Articles accepted for publication may be published online by Taylor and Francis Online at the conclusion of the copy editing process with the author's permission (see http://www.tandfonline.com/toc/rrsq20/current). Authors for whom we receive a valid email address will be provided an opportunity to purchase reprints of individual articles or copies of the complete print issue.
